E·C·G·R·A
ERIE COUNTY GAMING REVENUE AUTHORITY
2011-2012 ANNUAL REPORT

ecgra grant money works

In 2008, the creation of the Erie County Gaming Revenue Authority presented an unprecedented opportunity in the history of Erie County: to cultivate social and economic change through gaming proceeds. The ECGRA Board of Directors has seized that opportunity and is now creating real, meaningful, and lasting impact in our community.

In this fiscal year alone, ECGRA has put more than $10.5 million to work through our stakeholders. That money provides stability to Erie County's regional assets, provokes thoughtful experimentation in economic development, and furthers municipal growth.

This annual report tells just a few of the stories of ECGRA grant monies at work, but it identifies all of the funded programs ranging from soup kitchens and after-school programming to county fairs and historical festivals to capital development and business lending. We're proud of our investments and are eager to share their stories with you. If you have questions about a particular investment or stakeholder, please contact me directly at 814-897-2693.

The Board of Directors is committed to continued careful investment and reflection on how ECGRA funds take advantage of opportunities to put gambling revenue to work where it matters most to Erie County. Our goal is to empower nonprofits and catalyze community progress today and for the future.

To the many volunteers, board members, and staffers in the nonprofit sector, we salute your diligence and the impact you have on Erie County. As always, contact me when I can be of service to you.

All my best,

Perry N. Wood
Executive Director

$1.725 million at work powering local businesses

PSI Medical Catheter Care, LLC—an Erie Innovation Fund company—prevents infections, cuts costs, and saves lives.

PSI's Catheter Care System prevents bacterial contaminations that lead to infection in health care settings. Hospitals that use the system can reduce millions of dollars in direct costs incurred to treat infections while helping to eliminate the cause of death of the nearly 99,000 people who die of catheter-related infections each year.

In October 2010, ECGRA invested $1.725 million in three economic development organizations: the Ben Franklin Technology Partners of Central and Northern PA, the Erie County Economic Development Corporation (EDC), and the Gannon University Small Business Development Center (SBDC). Today, $1.2 million of that investment is at work funding 18 small businesses, manufacturers, and technology companies.

Erie Innovation Fund

ECGRA and Ben Franklin established the Erie Innovation Fund (EIF) to provide investment capital to Erie County technology entrepreneurs and small manufacturers to help increase their competitive edge, and to create and retain jobs. Each investment made by the fund is matched 1:1 with Ben Franklin dollars. To date, the EIF has financed four tech-based start-ups totaling $650,000—$325,000 of which is ECGRA money at work.

EIF companies are eligible for no-cost mentoring and business support services, including strategic planning, accounting, marketing and advertising, and human resource management.

Start, Grow & Prosper Initiative

The Start, Grow & Prosper Initiative is a powerful partnership between ECGRA, the EDC, and the SBDC created to spur job creation and small business growth. The EDC Enterprise Development Fund offers loans up to $250,000 for working capital, machinery and equipment, leasehold improvement, and real estate. The SBDC targets microloans up to $25,000 to women- and minority-led start-ups and small businesses, proprietorships in impoverished rural and urban areas, cottage industries, and nonprofit organizations.

Since the fund's onset, the full $875,000 has been invested in 14 local companies ranging from retail to service and manufacturing. Of that $875,000, $143,750 was invested as six microloans to the SBDC's target population.

Fund and microloan prospects are offered free and confidential education, planning, and financial consulting services through the SBDC's Application-Ready Program. In 2011, ECGRA's $150,000 investment in the program served 115 clients during approximately 1,900 hours of consulting that involved 962 business counseling sessions.

$100,000 at work meeting immediate needs

With $11,309 in urgent needs funds, the Salvation Army of Corry replaced failing boilers with highly efficient heating units. The repair enabled them to continue to serve more than 8,000 individuals with food, clothing, shelter, and comprehensive emergency assistance programming.

In 2011, ECGRA collaborated with The Erie Community Foundation to distribute urgent needs funds to Erie County's social service organizations. In total, 11 social service organizations received $100,000 of ECGRA grant monies in the form of ECF urgent needs funds.

$9,826 to Early Connections for a School Bus Repair

This grant lifted a serious financial burden and allowed Early Connections to continue to offer high-quality early care and unique educational opportunities to low-income clients at four inner city Erie sites and one rural site in Union City.

$11,000 for the Fairview Presbyterian Church Community Center Expansion

The church serves 2 tons of food to approximately 130 families per month and hosts an independent Alcoholics Anonymous program that serves 150 individuals monthly. The church can now meet additional needs in nearby Section-8 housing and in Springfield, Albion, Lake City, and Girard.

$10,000 for the Maria House Project Wilkum Halfway House Renovations

The fully renovated kitchen provides a home-like atmosphere conducive to male residents working together and learning skills necessary for living independent of the halfway house.

$10,000 for the My Father's House Veteran Housing Renovations

Updating the house to current safety codes allows My Father's House staff members to focus on its mission of moving women veterans to a greater level of self-sufficiency through transitional housing and connections to relevant support services.

$10,000 for the Sisters of St. Joseph Neighborhood Network Genesis Home Improvements

As the SSJN revitalizes the neighborhood from 12th to 26th street and State to Cranberry street in Erie, they rent out a house and a two-unit flat at below-market rates to three families. Urgent needs funds replaced a furnace and removed asbestos at one of those properties.

$4,275 to the Union City Family Support Center to Replace a Furnace

For 10 years, the center has provided effective community services to help families and their children become healthy, well-educated, safe, and economically independent.

A The Erie Zoo put ECGRA grant money to work beautifying the West 38th Street corridor and entrance to the zoo. Students and representatives from community partners Cathedral Preparatory School, PennDOT, and the City of Erie joined forces with the zoo's horticulture staff to weed, clean, and replant two large flower beds. In addition to planting nearly 5,000 daffodil bulbs, the zoo erected three animal silhouettes: a tiger, a rhino, and a giraffe, and plans to add up to two more silhouettes in 2012.

B The Erie County Historical Society put ECGRA funds to work making much-needed technology upgrades at the Erie Planetarium. When it was time to unveil those upgrades, ECHS Executive Director Alyson Cummings hosted longtime planetarium friend NASA Astronaut Colonel Michael Fincke. Colonel Fincke spent two days in Erie speaking to ECHS friends and local students. Read the full story at ECGRA.org.

C ECGRA created a $5,374,282 endowment fund at The Erie Community Foundation to sustain Erie County's Lead Assets in perpetuity. The gift was the fourth largest donation made to the foundation in the organization's 75-year history. The foundation will work alongside local investment manager PNC Bank. Here, Erie Community Foundation President Mike Batchelor (front row, red tie), PNC Bank Regional President Marlene D. Mosco (front row, fourth from right), ECGRA Executive Director Perry Wood (front row, yellow tie), and the ECGRA Board of Directors present a check to the Lead Assets.  $3,053,975 at work improving infrastructure and public safety

In December 2010, ECGRA entered into an agreement with Erie County and the five municipalities contiguous to Presque Isle Downs and Casino: Greene, McKean, Millcreek, Summit, and Waterford. According to the settlement, each of them will receive a quarterly distribution of gaming revenue that can be used to fund the costs of human services, infrastructure improvements, facilities, emergency services, and health and public safety expenses associated with licensed facility operations.

●	$1,374,288	Summit Township
●	$335,937	Erie County
●	$335,937	Greene Township
●	$335,937	McKean Township
●	$335,937	Millcreek Township
●	$335,937	Waterford Township

The Money Works in Summit Township

The Summit Township Industrial and Economic Development Authority (STIEDA) was created to meet official township needs. STIEDA has spent $538,108 meeting demands put on sewer, water, and municipal services as a result of Presque Isle Downs and Casino.

But STIEDA hasn't stopped there. With substantial ECGRA backing and innovative management, STIEDA has grown to provide business loans and grants. Most recently, Summit Township used $500,000 of gaming monies in a loan agreement to resettle Lord Corporation to the former Bush Industries site on Robison Road. STIEDA has agreed to forgive the loan if Lord creates an undisclosed number of jobs in Erie County.

The Money Works in Millcreek Township

ECGRA's now-annual funding of the township has made it possible for the Millcreek Police Department to add a full-time officer and a traffic enforcement officer. These positions enable the department to provide improved response to emergency situations and to enforce local laws.

Since Presque Isle Downs and Casino opened, Millcreek Township has experienced an increase in traffic in the vicinity of Pennsylvania Routes 97 and 505. The Millcreek Police Department has used ECGRA monies since 2008 to pay a traffic enforcement officer to patrol in the areas around the casino.

With the annual cost for one police officer exceeding $120,000, additional manpower was unlikely. In 2011, however, ECGRA allocations supported adding an officer to the township's now-59-member police department.

$30,000 at work inspiring youth

In September 2011, ECGRA launched UChoose Grants—an innovative granting program to involve Erie community members and reveal new, more diverse funding applicants.

Modeled after the nationally recognized Pepsi Refresh Project, the program gave Erie County residents the chance to choose how ECGRA invested $30,000 in grant monies. From October 10 to November 6, 2011, Erie County nonprofit organizations uploaded charitable, community, and educational project ideas to ErieUChoose.com. On November 28, 2011, voting began.

On January 12, 2012, three projects were awarded the first-ever ECGRA UChoose Grants:

- $15,000 to Bonkers 4 Jesus Sports, Arts & Science Camps managed by the Erie City Mission
- $10,000 to the Barton Reading and Spelling System launch brought to Erie by Saint Luke School
- $5,000 to Cub Scout Day Camp presented by French Creek Council Boy Scouts of America

In total, 47 nonprofit organizations received an excess of 50,000 votes by more than 5,800 registered ErieUChoose.com voters.

The ECGRA UChoose Grants were made possible by local partners Cyberink, Connoisseur Media, JET 24, YourErie.com, The Nonprofit Partnership, Kurt Sahlmann Video Production, The Black Family Foundation, and Phoenix Idea Lab.
